to this today in a speech to a new battalion of Royal Fusiliers recruited from business and professional men of London. He expressed his intense admiration for these men, saying:

"How different is your action to that of the men who still can go on with their cricket and football as if the very existence of the country were not at stake. This is not the time to play games, wholesome as they are in times of peace. We are engaged in a life and death struggle."

persistent and adroit as to constitute the greatest obstacle to Federal legislation women have to face.

We declare the nine Senators are the bulwark of the opposition. All of them retired in 1912, except Senator Lodge, whose term expires in 1917. The latter is so determined in his opposition that we commend his case to the women of Massachusetts who have two years in which to organize against him.

OPPOSED BY BOTH LEADERS IN HOUSE

In the lower house we have to contend not only with the powerful resistance of Representative Underwood and his lieutenant, Fitzgerald, of New York, but we have had to contend with the adroit opposition of the minority leader, James R. Mann, of Illinois. The latter has made it plain he intends to capitalize his reputation as a champion of the white slave.

"We believe the women will be much more interested in a bulletin we shall issue soon dealing candidly with Mr. Mann's record on this and other special legislation."

Besides the signatures of Dr. Shaw and Mrs. McCormick, the statement is signed by Mrs. Antoinette Funk and Mrs. Sherman M. Booth, Cincinnati; Mrs. Helen Gardener, Washington; Mrs. Mary C. Bradford, Denver; Mrs. Desha Breckinridge, Lexington, Ky.; Mrs. John Tucker, of San Francisco, and Mrs. Edward Piers, Brooklyn.

feet the attitude of the government in the matter. No red tape or circumlocution suggested freedom from the responsibility on behalf of the government was allowed to stand in the way for a moment. Congress, immediately appropriated $2,500,000 for the relief, protection and transportation of Americans who were marooned abroad. The President immediately turned over to the departments which could most readily handle the situation the execution of the relief. These departments were the State, Treasury, War and Navy.

DEPARTMENTS SWAMPED WITH FLOOD OF INQUIRIES

"For every American marooned, there were numerous persons in the country interested in his whereabouts and welfare. The departments were literally swamped with inquiries. Machinery had to be devised in each of the departments involved to handle the unique situation confided to its management. It was realized that the first and most important thing was to place the two dispatch of the Americans in Europe the necessary money with

To Look Young Quickly For Special Occasion

How often have you fussed and pattered with your face on the eve of some important social event, when you wanted to look your prettiest, and try what you would just couldn't get the desired result? Next time your face becomes unruly, exhibiting a care-worn and weary appearance, and if increased with the lines, here's something that will quickly transform it into one of youthful freshness.

Just get an ounce of powdered salicylic acid, and mix with a little water. Apply to your face with a soft brush, and in a few minutes you will find the skin and underlying tissue, which has been soiled and discolored, will be brought back to its normal state. Those who were able to pay for their accommodations did so; those who were not, but who would be when they reached this country, had their baggage money advanced by the government, and those who were actually destitute were taken care of by the government.

It is not of course, suggested that under these extraordinary circumstances there would be no mistakes made, but on the other hand, consideration of the existing conditions, demonstrates that no provision was possible in this case, that the situation had to be accepted, and that all was done that could be done under the circumstances.

It is estimated that at least 50,000 inquiries have been made at the State Department concerning the 20,000 Americans in Europe. With respect to each one of these 20,000 Americans in Europe, there has been a card index, of these 20,000 people, about 10,000 have been communicated with, and their condition ascertained and the information conveyed to the inquiries.

An arrangement was made with the bankers of this country whose clients were traveling in Europe with letters of credit from them to be cashed at their agencies in Europe, to transport with their foreign correspondents to meet the drafts aforesaid. Some of this was not money of banks, but of express companies which had issued travelers' checks payable in Europe.

With the same expedition was sent $1,000,000 of gold belonging to the government, so that if the situation then existing continued, they would be able to sum in physical value present wherever needed in Europe to relieve the situation of the Americans.

The friends in America of those marooned in Europe were naturally so apprehensive about the situation that it was transferred in some way more than $2,500,000 in actual currency was sent to Europe, and almost within the first three days, and almost $5,000,000 was taken in during the first week. The Treasury Department was able to devise a credit of $5,000,000 to be transferred to the marooned Americans in Europe, and more than $1,000,000 was thus deposited. To some extent this was accomplished by extraordinary banking methods, and in some instances extraordinary ways had to be devised. A credit of $5,000,000 was obtained at the Bank of England by sending that sum in gold by the Treasury Department to a designated English bank in Ottawa, Canada.

When it is realized that these deposits in the State and Treasury departments ranged from a few dollars upwards, some idea will be given of the tremendous work involved in this work. Extraordinary means had to be taken to identify the payee, to ascertain as nearly as possible his whereabouts, and to determine the method of giving him the benefit of the money deposited here for his relief.

CATARRH LEADS TO CONSUMPTION

Catarrh is as much a blood disease as scrofula or rheumatism. It may be relieved, but it cannot be removed by simply local treatment. It causes headache and dizziness, impairs the taste, smell and hearing, affects the voice, deranges the digestion and breaks down the general health. It weakens the delicate lung tissues and leads to consumption.

Hoof's Sarsaparilla goes to the seat of the trouble, purifies the blood, and is so successful that it is known as the best remedy for catarrh.

Hoof's Sarsaparilla strengthens and tones the whole system. It builds up. Ask your druggist for Hoof's, and insist on having it. There is no real substitute.—Advertisement.
